

A farmers' meeting was organized by the National Innovation Foundation–India (NIF) at A. Konduru Village, NTR District, Andhra Pradesh, on 26 June 2026, with the objective of directly engaging with local farming communities and promoting grassroots innovations.

The meeting was attended by 20 farmers who actively participated in discussions on the challenges faced in agriculture. They also shared their innovative farming practices, indigenous knowledge, and locally developed solutions. The session served as a platform to highlight the importance of documenting grassroots innovations and encouraged farmers to come forward with their unique ideas and traditional practices.
